

Lexus Announces Pricing for the All-new LC Convertible and the 2021 LC Coupe

20 August 2020

Lexus has today announced the prices for its all-new LC 500 Convertible and confirmed pricing for all variants of the new 2021 version of its LC Coupe. These flagship models represent the finest in Lexus craftsmanship, technology and performance.

Details of the models' pricing follows the recent launch of online reservations for the LC Convertible, Lexus's first soft-top. With order books open, the scheduled first vehicle deliveries to customers will take place during autumn 2020.

The V8-powered LC Convertible is available in two versions – standard and Sport+ Pack. The 2021 LC Coupe, benefits from upgrades to its powertrains, dynamic performance and onboard connectivity, and retains its established line-up of LC 500 (V8) and LC 500h (Multi Stage Hybrid) models, with additional Sport Pack and Sport+ Pack versions.

On the LC 500 Convertible, the Sport+ Pack specification includes 21-inch forged alloy wheels, semi-aniline leather seat upholstery and integrated neck heaters.

These are also available as options (leather and neck heaters combined in a single package) for the standard LC 500 Convertible.

Further options for both Convertible models include a full colour head-up display with Lexus card key, 17-speaker Mark Levinson Premium Surround Sound System and special metallic paint finishes (Sonic Silver, Sonic Titanium, Sonic Red and Naples Yellow).

The same options apply to the 2021 LC Coupe, with the exception of the neck heaters, which are specific to the Convertible. Both the Sport Pack and Sport+ Pack models feature the forged alloy wheels as standard; they are not available with semi-aniline leather option (Alcantara seat upholstery with leather bolsters is standard).
